2 . A Wide Range of Courses are Taught in English at the School of Global Studies and Collaboration

The School of Global Studies and Collaboration offers many courses in English that delve deeply into Japanese culture. The discussion-based and experiential classes are particularly popular, providing numerous opportunities to interact with Japanese students and broaden your international perspective.

The School of Social Informatics and the School of Community Studies do not offer courses in English. There are a few courses available in English at the College of Science and Engineering. Among these, the courses below are highly recommended for exchange students. Please note that some courses may not be offered every year. You can check the syllabus here: <https://syllabus.aoyama.ac.jp/>

3. Accessibility to Yokohama and Kamakura

The Sagami-hara Campus offers excellent access to popular tourist destinations such as Yokohama and Kamakura. Students, both Japanese and international, can easily visit historical landmarks and beautiful coastlines during weekends or holidays, an opportunity for refreshing breaks amidst their academic pursuits.

The Great Buddha of Kamakura

The hydrangeas of Kamakura

Yokohama Chinatown

Minatomirai

4. Local Culture and Events

Throughout the year, Sagami-hara City hosts traditional festivals such as the Kite Festival and fireworks displays, offering opportunities to directly experience Japanese culture. By participating in these events, you can engage with the regional culture of Japan. For more information on events in Sagami-hara City, please visit: Sagami-hara Events

Kite festival

5. Collaboration with Advanced Educational and Research Institution

We actively collaborate with local businesses and government entities to promote advanced education and research. Students have the valuable opportunity to freely access the Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA) and engage in cutting-edge research.

6. Convenience of Living Environment

Recommended student dormitories are located within an hour of the campus, with additional dormitories available in the surrounding area. This allows you to live close to campus even if you choose to find housing on your own, reducing the burden of commuting and ensuring a comfortable student life.
